Our Rating Full Review Today, it is a common trend that a toner or a single printer comprises most of the parts. In a simple HP printer there may be around 80 or more parts. In a laser printer, it may be a little bit less than this and some manufacturers have even started cutting down these numbers. Today, it is a common trend that a toner or a single printer comprises most of the parts. The main reason for this is that every printer needs a control board, a thermal printer head and a toner cartridge. An ink cartridge is used in case of laser printers. This ink cartridge is in simple words nothing but a consumable item which is consumed by the inkjet printer. Once it's consumed completely, you need to change or replace it.
