I have a question. Suppose I have two realtime tasks on processor 1. One can be scheduled at a time but the other has a variable delay (i.e. you can't tell when it will run). The question is, can they be scheduled in different cycles? Thanks in advance. A: Yes, they can be scheduled in different cycles. For example, suppose the first task has a cycle time of 10 microseconds and the second task has a cycle time of 30 microseconds. Then you would schedule the second task to begin execution 10 microseconds after the end of the first task's cycle time. Each task is scheduled to a specific cycle in the scheduler. E-mail: Name: Reasoning: About me: So i have been modding a lot of games for a long time and i have found a bunch of things that need to be changed,i know,its not that great for most people but to me its a lot of fun and since im not a game developer i want to make it more than just a cool idea, so i really would like to know your thoughts on this,if you have ideas tell me and if you are interested in helping me I can give you a little insight on how the modding world works and where i want to go. About you: You could give me a reason why you like modding or programming and if your a team member of something tell me a bit about it,i know im a noob about this,like whats a team manager or a team leader or a just an ordinary member. for. Theoretically, you could be a valet with multiple cars. Make sure you pay your valet or someone else to pay your valet. Social media videos from other racers are another way to get exposure. Try to make yourself at home, and remember that no one will ever ask to see your driver's license. INDYCAR Qualifying Racing Qualifying at Indy is always a thrill for the drivers and the fans. Depending on how you have qualified, your spot in the starting lineup is not guaranteed. You can earn your spot by leading or being the fastest on the day. The times set during qualifying are a crucial factor in gaining a starting position. The times
