F&S Pro was written by me several years ago, not only for the.Q: Importing data from one model to another I have a database with two models: Cars Car_Models There is a 1:n relationship between them, so Car_Model has a field that is named "car" with the foreign key id of the "car" model. I want to make a query on cars that gets all cars that are 'in sale' only, and returns the cars information and the car models information that belongs to those cars. I've tried to make an INNER JOIN like so: SELECT * FROM Cars AS car INNER JOIN Car_Models AS c ON car.id = c.car WHERE c.status = 'in sale' I've also tried using a LEFT OUTER JOIN to add the car_model's information to the car model: SELECT * FROM Cars AS car LEFT OUTER JOIN Car_Models AS c ON car.id = c.car WHERE c.status = 'in sale' However, I am getting null value. When doing a query with "WHERE c.status = 1" the problem is solved. The thing I don't understand is why it works the way it does 6d1f23a050
