Note that the first line of each line has been extracted and used as the new caption. Note that the number is now formatted with two digits before the decimal. You could probably just split the lines on the newline and get the desired output directly. However, if you need to build the table caption from each line, this method is probably fine. To answer the comments below, the count part of the format() string controls the formatting of the. You would not need to worry about commas, decimals, and so on.

$pdo->quoteInto($sql, "SELECT id, caption, text FROM chat where user_id = ". $user_id. " LIMIT 1");
```

If the user id is 1 then there will only be one row in the result set. So the result of the SQL query could be stored in an array containing the columns id and caption. A variable to store the number of elements returned by the SQL query

```
$result = $pdo->query("SELECT id, caption, text FROM chat where user_id = $user_id");
```

Then a loop to extract all the rows $i = 1; while ($row = $result->fetch_assoc()) { $row_data[] = $row; $i++; } $count = count($row_data);
```

You can then output the row as a table caption

```
$capture = ""; for ($i = 0; $i < count($row_data); $i++) { $capture.= "<tr><td>".$row_data[$i]['id']. "<td>".$row_data[$i]['text']. "</tr>";
```

The rest of the row HTML is left to you. Q: How to get the same effect as Bootstrap's navbar? I am building an app using Vue.js and am using Bootstrap 3 for some features. One of the features is a navbar with a dropdown that I would like to create using the Bootstrap 3 navbar. The problem is that when I do this I can't click on the same page on the navbar to
